

VERONIKA MESZARITS

Supporting executives and their teams in implementing complex projects that is Veronika's passion

The rough concept is ready, now it's time to implement it. This is where Veronika likes to get involved and create a dynamic and effective implementation with you and your team. This includes finding a common direction, developing and implementing a strategy, further developing organizations or strengthening executives in their impact. Based on more than 15 years of experience in leadership roles, large change projects, consulting and systemic methodological knowledge, she values a pragmatic alignment between result orientation and the concerns of the people involved
